

Delaware Convention Guide

State Conventions

In Delaware every convention consists of 341 delegates

- Each of the 3 counties will be allotted 9 base delegates
 - The 9 base delegates are divided between 3 convention districts
- Each Representative District within the Convention District shall be allotted 4 delegates
- 150 delegates are distributed as evenly as possible between the convention districts
 - 1.5 delegates for every 1 percent of the Republican vote cast in the last two general elections

Qualifications

- Registered Republican residing within the district at time of election

Process

Each Convention District varies on the process to elect delegates. Check with your local GOP party to find specific rules and guidelines.

- Some Districts elect delegates by roll call others by ballot
