

Washington Convention Guide

Precinct/Legislative Districts Caucus

Individuals are elected at their Precinct Caucus to be delegates at their Legislative District Caucuses.

County Convention

County Conventions are held to adopt and change party platform, elect county representatives to the State Convention, and elect delegates to the State Convention (if they were not elected at the Legislative District Caucus.)

Qualifications

- Registered Republican residing within the county
- Elected as delegate at Legislative District or Precinct Caucus

Process

- The rules for election are issued by the county party prior to the caucus or convention

State Convention

The Call for the State Convention will be mailed to all counties on January 15th. The Call will include information on the location of the Convention as well as the number of delegates allotted, and rules for electing delegates.

Qualifications

- A registered Republican residing within the state.

Process

- Delegates are elected at their Legislative District Caucus or County Caucus
Visit:
<http://www.wsrp.org/sites/default/files/2013%20Bylaws%20Passed%20January%202019,%202012.pdf> for full Washington GOP bylaws.

Who to Contact

- State or District Representative: www.wsrp.org
<http://www.precinctproject.us/>